

Eastside Community School Is Seeking a First-Grade Teacher

The Eastside Community School seeks a first-grade teacher to join our supportive faculty and dedicated community. Most of our incoming 1st graders will have enjoyed two or more years in our early childhood classes, including lots of outdoor play in our beautiful wooded acreage and nearby forest. This small and already well-formed group is eager to learn and welcome their teacher to our school.

Our inspired and cohesive faculty and administration is deeply committed to providing our students with an exemplary Waldorf education. Our programs include Eurythmy, Spanish, Japanese, Handwork, Movement & Games, Strings, Practical Arts, Choir, and Woodwork (depending on the grade).

Qualified candidates must have a Waldorf training certificate or substantial Waldorf teaching experience. We will consider applicants currently enrolled in a teacher training program. Additional teaching experience, as well as State Certification is also desired. We are looking for pioneering spirit who possesses strong listening and communication skills and is enthused about working closely with colleagues to carry Waldorf Education into its new century.

Our School

Our school is nestled in the Wilburton neighborhood of Bellevue on 5 wooded acres. Although ECS is new, our community of faculty, staff, parents, and 110 (and growing) children are not-- we have operated as a school for over two decades. The current Three Cedars campus will be shuttered as the result of financial decisions in our managing school in June 2018. However, a dedicated group of parents, faculty, and wider community members have come together to improve and continue our school.
