

Early Childhood Teacher

Eastside Community School (ECS) seeks an enthusiastic Early Childhood Teacher who brings a warm and loving presence to the children and is responsible for guiding the class, with the support of an assistant, through a rhythmical day of work, arts, hiking, and play both indoors and outside.

The ideal candidate is a Waldorf trained teacher who has previous experience teaching in a Waldorf school in an early childhood setting. We are looking for a pioneering spirit who possesses strong listening and communication skills and is enthused about working closely with colleagues to carry Waldorf Education into its new century.

This is a full time position and the class meets weekly from 8:00 am – 12:00 pm Monday through Friday mornings while school is in session. Additional hours are included for class preparation, evening parent meetings and communications with the class parents and early childhood colleagues.

Salary is commensurate with experience. Benefits depend upon hours of employment and may include health insurance, long-term disability insurance, partial tuition remission, and the possibility for professional development support and mentoring.

Our inspired and cohesive faculty and administration is deeply committed to providing our students with an exemplary Waldorf education. The Early Childhood Faculty is eager to collaborate with a new colleague in the interest of continuing our programs that are beloved in our community.

Our school is nestled in the Wilburton neighborhood of Bellevue on 5 wooded acres. Although ECS is new, our community of faculty, staff, parents, and children are not--we have operated as a school for over two decades offering Pre-school – Grade 8. When the Three Cedars campus closed, a dedicated group of parents, faculty, and wider community members have come together to build Eastside Community School. Our faculty, staff and parents have great enthusiasm for continuing and further developing our inspired programs.
